Foundry College is an inclusive setting committed to:

- providing a centre of excellence that inspires learning and enjoyment for all
- supporting all learners to achieve and fulfil their potential in a challenging yet safe, respectful environment
- promoting honesty, nurturing and developing skills for life
- providing a secure, enjoyable and stimulating learning environment which will enable all pupils to realise their potential as individuals in society
- high expectations for the achievement of pupils with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND)
- high quality personalised teaching, differentiated for individual pupils, as the first step in responding to pupils who have or may have SEND
- making parents welcome in the College and enabling them to play a full part in the education of their children

Aims

It is our aim that every pupil

- is fully included in college life, regardless of SEND or any other factor that may affect their attainment or ability to feel integrated into the College
- is a successful learner at a pace appropriate to their abilities and development
- has their strengths recognised and valued and their weaknesses supported, whether these are social, behavioural, physical, medical, emotional or academic.
- is encouraged to develop independence
- is encouraged to develop the skills required to enable them to make a successful transition into the next stage of their journey, be that further or higher education, employment or training and their rightful place in society

Objectives

This policy should:

- identify and provide for pupils who have special educational needs and additional needs
- work within the guidance provided in the SEND Code of Practice (2015)

- support the operation of a ‘whole pupil whole college’ approach to the management and support of special needs
- provide support and advice for all staff

Definition from SEN Code of Practice

A child or young person has special educational needs (SEN) if they have a learning difficulty or disability which calls for special educational provision to be made for him or her. A child of compulsory school age or a young person has a learning difficulty or disability if he or she:

- has a significantly greater difficulty in learning than the majority of others of the same age, or
- has a disability which prevents or hinders him or her from making use of educational facilities of a kind generally provided for others of the same age in mainstream schools or mainstream post 16 institutions

TYPES OF SEN

SEN is divided into 4 types:

- Communication and Interaction - this includes children with speech and language delay, impairments or disorders, specific learning difficulties such as dyslexia, dyscalculia, dysgraphia and dyspraxia, hearing impairment, and those who demonstrate features within the autistic spectrum.
- Cognition and Learning - this includes children who demonstrate features of moderate, severe or profound learning difficulties or specific learning difficulties such as dyslexia, dyscalculia, dysgraphia or dyspraxia.
- Social, Mental and Emotional Health - this includes children who may be withdrawn or isolated, disruptive or disturbing, hyperactive or lack concentration.
- Sensory and/or Physical Needs - this includes children with sensory, multisensory and physical difficulties.

Disability

Many children and young people who have SEN may have a disability under the Equality Act 2010 – that is ‘...a physical or mental impairment which has a long-term and substantial adverse effect on their ability to carry out normal day-to-day activities’. This definition provides a relatively low threshold and includes more children than many realise: ‘long-term’ is defined as ‘a year or more’ and ‘substantial’ is defined as ‘more than minor or trivial’. This definition includes sensory impairments such as those affecting sight or hearing, and long-term health conditions such as asthma, diabetes, epilepsy, and cancer. Children and young people with such conditions do not necessarily have SEN, but there is a significant overlap between disabled children and young people and those with SEN. Where a disabled child or young person requires special educational provision they will also be covered by the SEN definition.

As a school we observe two key duties:

- we must not directly or indirectly discriminate against, harass or victimise disabled children and young people
- we must make reasonable adjustments, including the provision of auxiliary aids and services, to ensure that disabled children and young people are not at a substantial disadvantage compared with their peers. This duty is anticipatory – it requires thought to be given in advance to what disabled children and young people might require and what adjustments might need to be made to prevent that disadvantage

Responsibilities of the Headteacher

- deciding the College's general approach to meeting pupils' SEND for those with and without statements / Education Health and Care Plans
- working closely with the College SENCO
- ensuring effective appraisal arrangements are in place to guarantee appropriate monitoring of SEND provision

SENCO: Rachel Chopping

Contact details of SENCO : rachel.chopping@foundry.wokingham.sch.uk

Responsibilities of the SENCO

- overseeing the day to day operation of the SEND policy and Local Offer
- liaising with and advising colleagues and parents / carers to ensure that realistic expectations of behaviour and achievement are set in Individual Learning Plans (ILP)
- co-ordinating and completing EHCP applications and managing reviews
- coordinating provision
- overseeing pupil records and monitoring progress
- contributing to the in-service training of staff
- liaising with external agencies

The role of teachers is to provide high quality teaching for all pupils, as the SEND Code of Practice paragraph 6.37 states "High quality teaching, differentiated for individual pupils, is the first step in responding to pupils who have or may have SEND. Additional intervention and support cannot compensate for the lack of good quality teaching. The College will regularly and carefully review the quality of teaching for all pupils, including those at risk of underachievement."

Monitoring and Evaluation

The Senior Leadership Team (SLT) are responsible for evaluating the effectiveness of the SEND policy and Local Offer. The SENCO is responsible for monitoring individual pupil progress and producing a termly report for SLT and the Management Committee.

Foundry College's Local Offer
